Tiger Brands appoints ethics committee and compliance officer

In line with the requirements of the new Companies Act that came into effect on 1 May 2011, Tiger Brands has appointed a Social and Ethics Committee.

1 September 2012

The Tiger Brands Ethics and Social Committee members are:

Bheki Sibiya (Chairman),
Andre Parker,
Carol Jackson,
Craig Manning,
Ian Isdale,
Matsie Matooane,
Maya Makanjee, and
Peter Matlare, CEO

According to the Institute of Directors, social and ethics committees have the responsibility of monitoring the organization's activities with respect to legislation and codes, draw matters to the attention of the board, and report to the shareholders at the annual general meeting. The committee's scope includes social and economic development; good corporate citizenship; environment, health and public safety; consumer relationship; and labour and employment.

“Because we're committed to good ethics and governance, and have integrity as one of our core values, we appointed this committee with confidence that they will support us in achieving our goals.”

New compliance officer

In addition, Tiger Brands has appointed Wilson Ratjomana as compliance officer who has the responsibility of ensuring that all the business units comply with applicable legislation and ensuring, bedding down or implementing and monitoring good corporate governance practices in all the businesses.

Ratjomana holds a B.Admin degree, an Honours in Public Administration, a Masters in Public Administration, specialising in ethics, a B.Tech Honours in Forensic Investigations, a post-graduate diploma in compliance management, a post-graduate diploma in the drafting and interpretation of contracts and another post-graduate diploma in enterprise risk management. He is also currently completing his LLB.

He previously worked at Liberty Holdings, where he headed up governance, risk and compliance for the Africa subsidiaries.
